

"Moroccan Photos" Exhibit

▶ Museum Homepage

▶ Exhibits

See what's in the Museum

▶ Events

Explore what's happening

▶ Education

Learn about our programs

▶ Collections

Discover what we have

▶ Gift Shop

Find the perfect gift

▶ MOA Friends

Join and support the Museum

▶ Newsletter

Read our newsletter

▶ Staff

Contact us

"Drinking from the Same Well: Jewish and Muslim Co-existence in Morocco"

Rose-Lynn Fisher of Los Angeles, a professional photographer whose work has been shown in ten solo exhibitions and more than 25 group exhibits since 1983, has created an exhibit of 25 black-and-white photos of people in Morocco. King Mohammed VI of Morocco praised her work as capturing the beauty and spirit of his land. Many of the photos show interactions between Muslims and Jews in a country that has a long history of tolerance and amicable relations between members of different religions. The exhibit will also include artifacts from Morocco and a computer with many other photographs of Moroccans by Fisher.

The exhibit will open November 7, 2003 and will run through February 14, 2004.

